Let's compare a
Precious stone, a gem,
One of nature's most Treasured possessions
To a person, a Student, another of Earth's wonders.

There may be many stones, many
 Gems, shining and gleaming to form
 The essence of beauty;
 Just as there are many persons,
 Many students, together in Purpose and goal.

A jewel is accented by its Surroundings, its setting, or Mounting. Similarly students are Influenced by their surroundings
At home, school, work, or play.

A gem produces a certain Brilliance in an effort to Look its best.

A student needs the Ability and the inspiration
To strive for his own Perfection.

NOTICE!

THIS GRASS SUPPLIES
ENOUGH OXYGEN FOR 2 STUDENTS TO BREATHE FOR  $4\frac{1}{2}$
MONTHS.

DEAD; IT HELPS
NO ONE.

Finally, there are
The characteristics
The different sides that
Make a gem whole.
And there are
The emotions, the senses,
The intellect that together
Make a student.

FACETS

CLASSES

Here are the students in their classes. Here are the diamonds in their masses.
Ready to be shaped and designed to cope with what in life they find.

ACADEMICS

Craftsmanship and patience are needed to design the brilliant and lustrous diamond called the human mind.

Administrative

Mr. Mason prepares to make an important announcement on the public address system.

Executive duties kept the administrative staff very busy. Aside from his daily conferences, Mr. Mason conducted periodic meetings of the faculty and PSTA in order to create a deeper understanding among administrators, teachers, parents, and students. Mr. Waddell assumed the roles of disciplinarian and friend as he handled the inevitable conduct problems of students and, at the same time, assisted councilmen with their ballgame concession stand.

Mr. Waddell, Greg Garris, and George Williams ready the popcorn machine for business.

Mrs. Geary and Mrs. Weathers discuss textbooks for next year's new English courses.

Joy Clark, Lindy Creech, Mrs. Burnett, Janie Robbins, and Susan Eason discuss Homecoming activities.

Duties Are Many and Varied

Mrs. Burnett spent most of her time guiding class officers and councilmen in their various projects and activities. Mr. Crutchfield took the grueling responsibility of devising and revising class schedules; he also worked with the junior class advisor in counselling the various facets of the Jr.-Sr. Prom.

The daily job of securing substitute teachers fell into the hands of Mrs. Weathers. Observing the classroom activities of teachers was also her duty.

Several capable secretaries performed the "behind-the-scene" duties of typing and duplicating the daily bulletin, absentee and tardy lists, and individual teacher's tests. They also took care of the payroll, wrote special admission slips, and sent needed supplies and books to the proper teacher.

Mrs. Prim shows student helper Connie Kearney the importance of correct spelling.

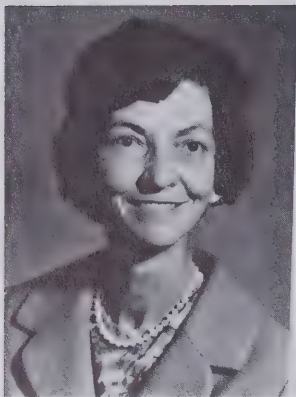

After lunch, Mrs. Evans counts money from machines in the student union.

While Cindi Aman locates the number and Carolyn Lorek makes the call, Mrs. Dempsey and Mrs. Brown discuss cumulative folders.

Guidance Counselors Aid Students

Mrs. Evelyn T. Doughty

B.S., Longwood College

Mrs. Lettie R. Merrick
B.S., Fayetteville State University
M.A., N. C. C. U.

The Guidance Counselors played a vital role in lives of students of New Hanover High School.

Sophomore Counselors assisted students with schedule planning and adjusting to high school problems. Junior Counselors helped to recruit students for P.S.A.T., S.A.T. and Achievement Tests. Senior Counselors aided with career planning, college choices and obtaining scholarships.

William C. McClammy

Sarah Bailey and Tom Davis receive information concerning Governor's School from Mrs. Merrick.

Mrs. Doughty explains Army ROTC scholarships to Richard Carrigan.

Karen Marshburn and Oveta McKeithan receive their PSAT scores from Mr. McClammy.

Library Changes Location

In the fall, workmen continue to transform the auditorium into a new library.

To better meet the needs of the students, the library moved from the 3rd floor into a spacious, beautifully carpeted location.

Many groups aided the librarians in the move. R.O.T.C. Cadets, Key Club members and library assistants helped in moving books, shelves and tables.

To enhance the library's beauty, Timme Corporation donated material from which Mr. Charles McBroom and his tailoring students designed custom made drapes. They also reupholstered furniture to match chairs and the carpet.

Students seem to enjoy the comforts of the new library.

Miss O'Keef helps students find material for research papers.

Debbie Skipper, Brenda Miller and Jeria Munroe help move books to the new location.

Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Fredlaw serve students as they pass through the lunch line.

Without the aid of school assistants, New Hanover High School could not have run as smoothly. They cleaned the halls, classrooms, and restrooms daily. Each day, cafeteria assistants prepared for and served meals to approximately five hundred students. Special assistants in the infirmary administered medicines to sick students. NHHS also employed an aide who worked with busdrivers on time sheets and any related problems.

Art Classes Develop Talent

During the course of the year, Art students embarked on individual projects. At Christmas time, they made yarn tree decorations and arranged them on a tree supplied by Mrs. Rippy. Mr. Boone's students painted a huge Wildcat Christmas card which they displayed on the school's front lawn.

Other classroom activities included macrame, crayon etchings, resists, and still life drawings.

Lethia Hankins, Debra Hill, Lillian Williams, Paula Pittman, and Diane Baldwin work on projects made of wax as Mr. Boone observes.

Students display their creativity throughout the classroom.

Musicians Visit Raleigh

Introductory Music Theory and Advanced Music Theory, introduced into the music curriculum this year, interested seven students. Students enrolled in this class learned the fundamentals of music, which assisted them in writing an original composition at the end of the semester.

In addition to concert performances and attending a Regional Workshop, the Hanover Singers and Girls' and Male choruses joined other local music students in a one-day County Music Festival.

Attendance at the governor's inauguration in Raleigh highlighted the year for instrumental music students.

Madrigal Dinner Recreates

This year represented the beginning of major innovations in the English department. English teachers of Virgo, Williston, New Hanover High School and Hoggard High School, along with six students and four parents, met to discuss the reorganization of the English department. To provoke more interest in English, semester courses such as Shakespeare, History of the English Language and Supernatural/Science Fiction became available to students.

Special Education Builds Self - Confidence

Josephine Kenney and Jane Biddle work on their class projects after finishing their written lessons.

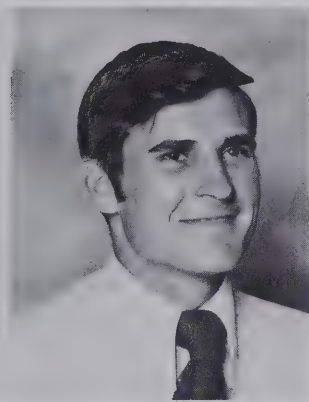

In the Special Education Department the students learned to apply classroom work to situations outside of class. In the math classes, students learned how to handle their financial situations, while in the science classes they studied personal hygiene. In order to build self-confidence and develop wider points of view, Mr. Lewis held regular classroom discussions. To encourage the use of imagination, Mrs. Brown combined arts and crafts with her history lessons.

Since experience is necessary for good driving, the Driver Education course at New Hanover achieves this with classroom study and "on-the-road" training. In the classroom students must receive at least 36 hours of instructions in which they learn the "rules of the road." Students are also required to have six hours of actual driving experience instruction from one of the two qualified instructors. Combining these two facets of learning creates a safer and more qualified driver.

The Foreign Language Department, headed by Mrs. Elizabeth West, offered courses in German, Latin, French and Spanish. First-year students practiced speaking skills in the language. Second-year students conjugated verbs and began reading practices. Advanced students read stories, acted in plays and broadened their knowledge of the history of the language.

Bible Classes Have A Full-Time Teacher

For the first time in six years New Hanover had a full-time teacher to instruct one hundred and twenty-five students in Bible.

Besides studying the Bible, students watched films, held discussions, and examined the relationships between the scriptures and present-day situations.

During class, Glenda Henry and Debbie Thompson point out areas in which Jesus performed miracles.

To provide courses for the mathematically-inclined students, the Mathematics curriculum included Trigonometry, Linear Algebra, Analytic Geometry, and Pre-Calculus. These courses, previously taught under the general heading "Advanced Math," enabled juniors and seniors who had the prerequisites to enroll in the classes of their choices.

In addition to these new courses, the curriculum not only included semester or yearly courses in General Math and Consumer's Math, but also offered courses in Algebra I, Algebra II, and Geometry.

Social Studies Department

The Social Studies Department, headed by Mr. James T. Meadows, offered many new and interesting courses to approximately three-fourths of the student body. Among the new courses offered this year were Ecology, Comparative Governments, Comparative Religions, Famous Americans, The Role of the Family in Society, Africa-Asia, 20th Century Europe, Famous Persons (World) and Independent Studies.

Ecology classes edited a film on litter and pollution around campus. Government classes attended court sessions and visited many offices in the local government.

Students Prepare for Vocations

The Business curriculum broadened to include semester courses in business law and notehand, while typing changed to four semester courses. Notehand, designed for students who planned any type of formal education beyond high school, helped to increase speed in taking notes. Business Law familiarized the students with the origin, development, and some basic principles of law.

In addition to these new courses, the curriculum continued to offer such courses as Shorthand, Bookkeeping, and Office Practice.

Students Prepare For Better Job

The vocational department is designed to introduce students to a wide field of jobs. Health Occupation jobs acquaint students with the possibilities of a medical career, while the Aerospace class introduces students to the expanding field of aeronautics. In brick-laying, carpentry, auto mechanics, electronics, and tailoring classes, students gain practical experience in a trade; I.C.T. and D.E. students receive on-the-job training at the jobs of their choices. In drafting or commercial arts classes, the student prepares for an excellent career in architecture or advertising, respectively.

Girls Physical Education Department Expands

This year the girls' athletic department expanded its program to accommodate new activities of bowling, golf, and work on the balance beam. Exercising to music also became a regular activity.

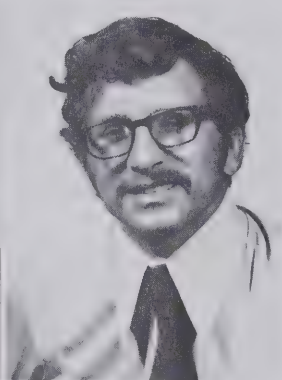

In the fall, the boys' athletic department required each student to participate in a four-week exercising period. Following this month of conditioning, the athletes began organized group sports, with indoor games including basketball and volleyball. In warmer weather, students participated in softball, tennis, and track.

whims.

Students line up in the Home Economics room to await the making of their identification cards.

Varied Activities Begin Active Year

Everyone enjoys the freedom and activities of the summer. However, when September rolls around, students exchange their carefree summer ways for the school and its always changing life. Concerts, ballgames, fairs, and even classes occupy a student during his school year. These things and more are all shining facets of Student Life.

School spirit bursts forth at the first Hanover-Hoggard football game of the year.

Girls in the Physical Education class huff and puff their way down the sidewalk during a class session.

Homecoming Proves To

NHHS students found constantly changing activities to keep them busy during Homecoming Week. A posted schedule of the week's activities, revealing something different for each day, included students honoring football players, wearing buttons and ribbons, attending the Homecoming Parade, and making signs to show their school spirit. The student body chose ten senior girls to form the Homecoming Court, and Lindy Creech became the Homecoming Queen of 1972. New Hanover's football team won their hoped-for victory over New Bern and celebrated with a well-attended dance, featuring Joy Ride, at the end of the week.

Forming the Homecoming Court this year are Lindy Creech (Queen), Susie Eason, Pam Young (Maid of Honor), Portia Richardson, Sheila Holland, Beth Hicks, Joy Clark, Janie Robbins, Pam Fisher, and Pam Everett.

New Library Named For Head Librarian

Workmen endeavor to create a library from an old auditorium.

With piles of work still to be done, diligent students work to prepare old books for new shelves.

After many problems and delays, New Hanover High School gained a new, modern library. Workmen tore the old auditorium apart and completely remodeled it. Students pitched in and helped move the hundreds of boxes and the furniture. By the time Christmas holidays came around the library was ready for students to start visiting it again.

Late in March the administration held a dedication ceremony in order to officially present the library to the school. At this time, the Chairman of the Board of Education of New Hanover County read a resolution proclaiming that the library be known as the Fannie C. O'Keef Library, in honor of New Hanover's head librarian. The school purchased a bronze plaque and had it engraved with the new name. This plaque now hangs over the main entrance to the new Fannie C. O'Keef Library.

Miss O'Keef expresses joy at learning that the new library will be named for her.

Christmas Cheer Evident Around School

Christmas spirit prevails with the help of a tree which towers to the roof of the library.

A seasonal placard gives the front lawn an air of Christmas.

Snow

Students laughingly emerge into an unexpected February snow storm.

Snow storms affected many school activities, not only in winter, but in summer as well. Hazardous conditions forced the addition of two extra school days in the month of June. Mid-term exams were a full week late. After all of the rescheduling, the School Board handed down a decision that said that seniors need not take exams in semester courses. The teachers' workday, a holiday for students, had to be delayed, as did the distribution of report cards. Although the snow provided fun while it was on the ground, it also provided confusing problems for people, even after it had become only a memory.

New Hanover High School is virtually deserted during the big snow storm in January which halted activity for an entire week.

Interrupts School Year Twice

Members of the decoration committee discuss flower streamers for the Prom.

The Junior Class backs the schoolwide candy sale to raise funds for the Junior-Senior.

Juniors Salute Seniors With Prom

On the night of May the fifth the juniors and seniors of New Hanover stepped into the unforgettable world of "Somewhere My Love". The hard work of the Junior Class paid off as everyone danced to the music of Love and Peace, while surrounded by the enchanting decorations which set the scene. Especially for the seniors, the Prom was a beautiful way to close the school year.

Lynn Ivey, Faye Edwards, Sarah Bailey, and Constance Bradford man the concession stand in order to bring in money for the Junior-Senior.

Cleota Bailey and Claire Hargett add the finishing touches to costumes for sophomores serving at the Junior-Senior.

Graduation:

Seniors are measured for their caps and gowns.

Termination is an almost unbearably sad illusion. And the inevitable beginnings that follow are always filled with hopes—and fears—of impending prospects.

“Optimism” . . . that’s the key word. It determines whether one sees a cup as half empty—or half full: likewise, it governs whether one regards graduation as the beginning of the end—or the end of the beginning. The end of many friendships . . . the end of carefree security . . . the end of over a decade of formal education: the ends of the beginnings which form and prepare the graduates for as diverse lives as they are diverse individuals.

The sadness cannot be dispelled, but it can be displaced—by the expectations of tomorrow . . . and the satisfaction of this day!

Class of 1973, you’ve done it! You’ve graduated!

Richard Epps, student body president at UNC-CH, speaks to the student government on project ideas.

A representative from the Paoli Candy Company explains the procedures for the school-wide candy sale.

Student Council

A new project undertaken this year by the student council was the school-wide candy sale. Proceeds from the sale went into a Student Activities Fund to be used by all school organizations.

Council members also sponsored the Christmas dance. The Spring Festival, held in April, offered a variety of activities such as a talent show, a dance, and a picnic.

Kenny Babb, Beth Batten, and Belinda Smith work on constitutional revisions.

Sonja Ferguson serves the last customer as Liberace Wilson, Becky Wagner, Jerelyn Ferguson, Glenn Addison, and Norma Knapp take a break after the halftime rush.

Welfare committee members Gail Dillon, Carl Sutton, Sharon Todd, Becky Wagner, Chairman Laura Todd, and Susan Barkley make birthday cards for teachers.

Cabinet

Members of the Cabinet began their work during the summer by setting up a calendar of activities, publishing the handbook, and holding sophomore orientation. After school started, each member began working with his committee on special projects. To raise money, the treasury committee sold drinks at home basketball games. The school spirit committee worked to sponsor Homecoming Week and the social services committee conducted a food drive at Thanksgiving.

Student body officers Pam Fisher, Gwen Charles, and Anne Nelson look at articles of New Hanover's outstanding achievements in the school scrapbook.

Pat Conrad, Secretary of Grounds and Parks, and Norma Knapp put straw around an azalea bush.

Cissi Fulenwider, a co-chairman of the ESAP committee, tells Secretary of Human Relations Winfred Clemmons about plans to invite Dudley Flood, State Human Relations Director, to a workshop.

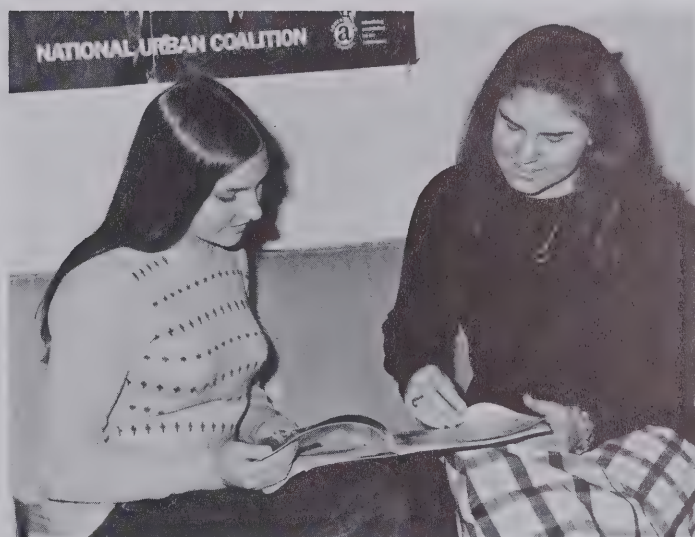

Councilman Judy Yelton turns in money from the candy sale to Glenn Addison, Secretary of Treasury.

Secretary of Public Relations Kenneth Sneed discusses the content of his weekly news article with Cathy Johnson of the "Star-News".

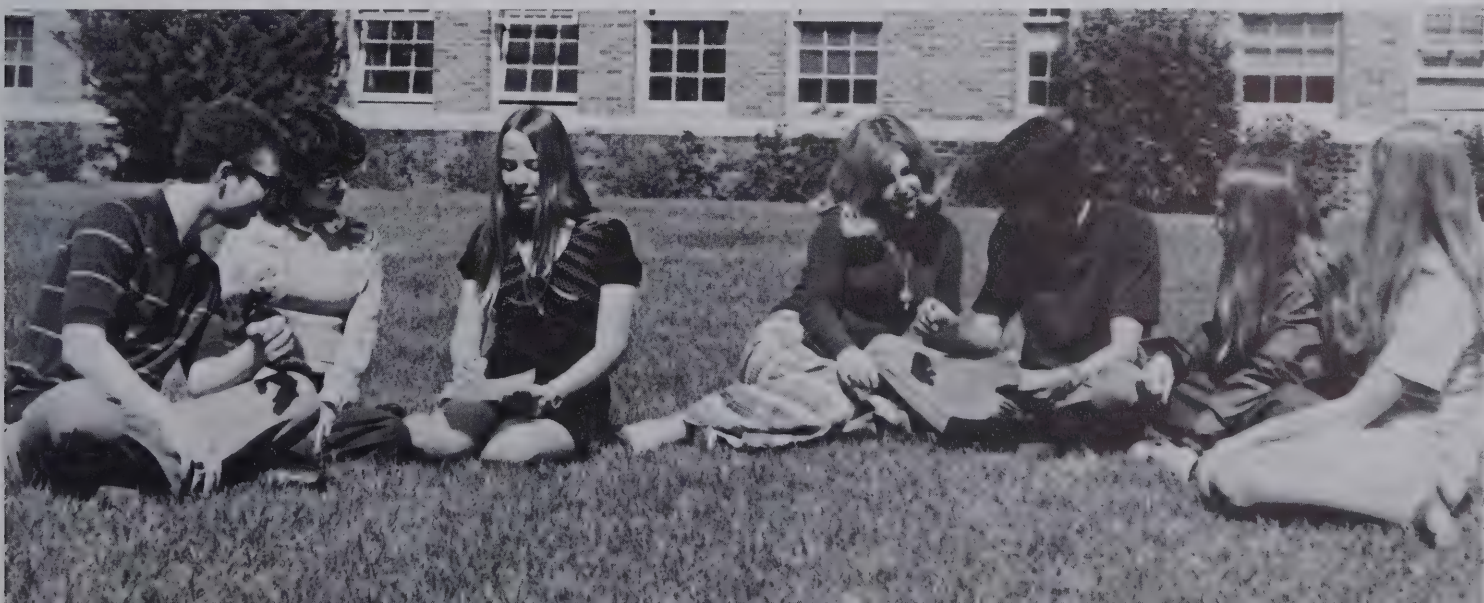

Mickie Biddison and Kayron Ferguson help Elections Chairman Ann Foster put voter registration sheets into the boxes of homeroom teachers.

Marsha Wolff, Secretary of School Spirit first semester, and Judy Yelton, Secretary during second semester look at catalogs of fund-raising projects.

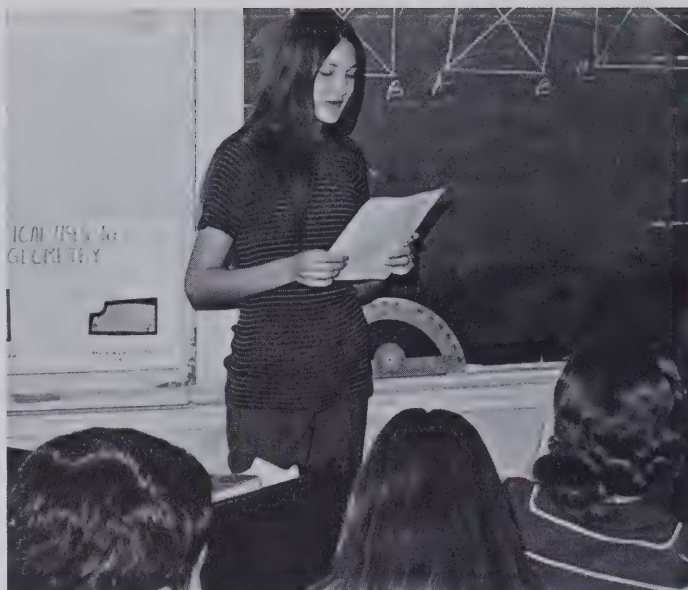

Members of the Spring Festival Committee David Crocker, Norma Knapp, Brenda Asbury, Beth Batten, David Hester, Belinda Smith, and Secretary of Hospitality Laura Ingold take advantage of the fine spring weather to have an outdoor meeting.

Debbie Swinson, Rita Todd, and Twila Page bring Spring Court ballots in after elections in homeroom.

Linda Blake reads the bulletin during the homeroom period.

Homeroom Chairmen

Seventy-one homeroom chairmen, elected shortly after the opening of school, served in many different ways. In his own homeroom, each chairman was responsible for reading the bulletin, distributing "The Wildcat", and helping with elections.

At their class meetings, the seniors made plans for Senior Week and graduation; the juniors worked to make the Junior-Senior Prom a success, and the sophomores started raising money for future projects.

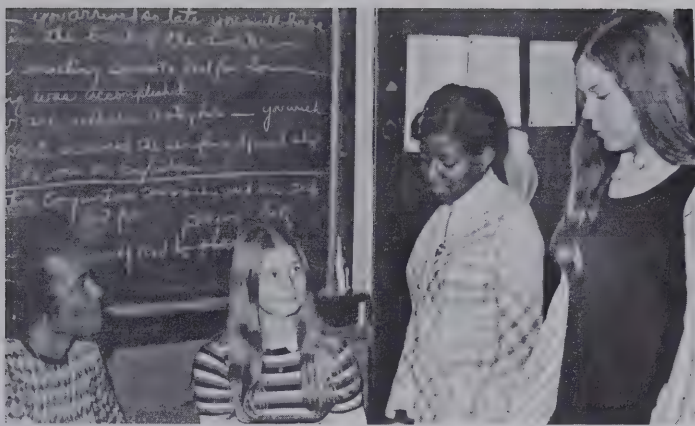

Teresa Goodwin and Peggy Phillips examine the latest edition of "The Wildcat" as they deliver copies to their homerooms.

Brenda Thames, Cindi Aman, Teresa Bell, Linda Curry, and Sarah Bailey look over brochures on possible bands for the Junior-Senior.

Mrs. Allie Brewington and Laura Ingold interview Cleota Bailey and Linda Parks.

Social Marshals

Social Marshals began their activities by distributing programs to students during Orientation. To brighten up the main lobby of the school, they decorated a Christmas tree. Besides ushering at the Hanover Singer Concert and County Music Festival, Social Marshals served refreshments at the Christmas Dance. Ushering at Graduation concluded the activities of the year.

Seated: Cheryl Sandifer, Cindy Horrell, Cookie White, and Kathy Benton. Standing: Rozett Floyd, Donna Carraway, Cleota Bailey, Rita Todd, Linda Parks, Laura Ingold, Phyllis Clemmons, and Myra Lylerly.

Donna Carraway and Kathy Benton check the supply of Christmas decorations.

Accompanists Sheila Sloan, Marshal Foster, and Bobbie Alexander look over some music to be used in the Spring Concert.

Hanover Singers

During the Christmas season, the sixty-eight members of the Hanover Singers entertained civic organizations such as the Rotary, Lions, and Optimist Clubs. In addition, they gave their Christmas concert at UNC-W and appeared on the Jim Burns' Show.

Dressed in 17th century costumes, the Ensemble and members of the Senior Enriched English Classes gave a Madrigal Dinner Concert at First Presbyterian Church.

Eighteen students of the Hanover Singers and the Voyagers travelled to Greensboro for the All State Chorus and performed at the Capitol in Raleigh in May. To help finance the trip, the whole group sold chocolate candy bars.

In November, the Hanover Singers and the Hoggard Voyagers performed at the National Music Convention held at Kenan Auditorium and at the Pat Boone Rally in Brogden Hall.

Choruses

Members of Girls' and Males' Choruses performed at a well-attended concert during the Christmas season. Both groups participated in the Spring Concert in May. In March, the choruses went to the District Workshop held at UNC-W where they performed and observed other groups. They also participated in the County Music Festival at Brogden Hall.

Bob Seliskar, Mrs. Gore, Ann Hamel, Jackie Amerson, Linda Parks, Patricia Wallace, Jenese Ellis, Maryanne Lon, Karen Alford, Helen Kubric, Sherry Boswell, and Lynn Sneed sing carols at Manor Care Nursing Home.

Language Clubs

Aside from decorating the two French display windows on the third floor every month, the French Club constructed a Homecoming float.

Spanish Club members had a Christmas party for the children at the NHHS Nursery, while the French Club made Christmas cards, sold cloth calendars, and carolled for patients at Manor Care Nursing Home.

In the spring the language clubs participated in various activities. The French Club donated storybooks to the childrens' ward at New Hanover Memorial Hospital. In March the Latin Club travelled to Chapel Hill to attend the Latin Club Convention. Spanish Club members challenged the French Club to their annual bowling match.

Lindy Blake, Cindy Wood, and Sue Richards enjoy the Spanish Club's Christmas party with some nursery children.

French Club secretary Jackie Amerson, a French flag, and a miniature structure of the Eiffel Tower complete the club's homecoming car.

Ann Hamel, Jenese Ellis, and Karen Alford sort and box the toys which the French Club plans to donate to the children at New Hanover Memorial Hospital.

Cindy James, Nancy Garrett, Margarette Moore, Argie Fragos, Debra Evenson, Helen Moore, Della Rector, and Carolyn Lorek show school spirit in the Homecoming parade.

Mike Scaff makes a last-minute check on the lights.

Drama Club

In February, Drama Club presented the play, "Three on a Bench", for the Southeastern District Festival in Wilmington and Raleigh. They received "distinguished" ratings, and Suzanne Howell also received an award for her acting ability.

For the first time in recent years, the club earned enough points to become a member of National Thespians, an Honor Society for talented acting groups.

James Barmore straightens his tie as he takes one last look.

Students awaiting to play enjoy the conveniences of the drama classroom which is now a miniature theatre.

Mindy Bryant and Sarah Bailey look on as Becky Boehling reviews the applications of anxious sophomores.

Susie Eason, Nell Clayton, Fern Craig, Meg Talbert, and Anne Nelson set out food for the Keyette-Key Club banquet.

Pam Britt and Carolyn Frye draw the plans for the Keyettes' float in the Homecoming Parade.

Pam Fisher, Ann Hamel, and Angela Hankins read materials about the orphan which the club sponsored this year.

Cleota Bailey, advisor Mrs. Rippy, and Nora McCombs discuss plans for the Spring Festival Talent Show.

Sheila Holland, Carrilee Goslee, Myra Lyerly, Rozett Floyd, and Deborah Fales practice singing Christmas carols for their visits to the hospitals during the holiday season.

Keyettes

Keyettes started out on the right foot this year by winning first prize in the Homecoming float contest. By selling tickets for the Kiwanis Pancake Day in November, the club made money for its treasury and for the service projects of its sponsor organization.

At Christmas, the Keyettes were particularly busy since they carried out three different projects: a party for the Girls' Club, a party for the handicapped children at William Blount School, and Christmas caroling at New Hanover Memorial and Babies' Hospital.

Sarah Bailey and Cheryl Sandifer finish the Keyettes' spring bulletin board on the third floor.

Marching and Pep Bands

Following the lead of drum major Charlie Wall, the NHHS Marching Band participated in the Homecoming Parade, the Jacksonville and Burgaw Christmas parades, and performed during half time at home football games. As an added highlight to the year, our band accepted an invitation to the Governor's Inaugural Parade in January and marched with other bands from across the state.

Due to an increased number of students in the marching band, more uniforms had to be ordered. The sale of decorative candles at Christmas made the purchases possible.

Marching Band members prepare to leave for the Governor's Parade in Raleigh.

Gail Dillon and Ruth Walker help the librarians by shelving books.

Sharon Todd and Jerry Stokes alphabetize attendance cards as James Utley answers the ever-ringing phone.

Sophomore Alfred Richardson helps straighten shelves in the supply room.

Assistants

Many different types of assistants worked to help students and teachers this year, but the library aides were perhaps the busiest of all, since they had to help arrange the library after it relocated. While assistants in the main office answered the phone and ran errands, other students in the guidance office typed transcripts for college-bound seniors. Lab assistants helped biology and Chemistry teachers prepare for various experiments and thereby gained a unit of credit. Other students worked during their study halls to grade papers. Mrs. Evans profited by having boys in the bookroom to deliver books and supplies.

Theda Saffo, Patricia Pellom, and Sally Skinner help clean up in the Student Union between lunch periods.

Debra Rhodes and Cheryl Davis grade algebra tests for Miss O. Smith.

Mrs. Horton meets with Deborah Fales and Peggy Symmes after school to discuss plans for the candy sale.

Peggy Phillips helps Greg Wood make improvements in his speech prior to the induction ceremony.

Both New Hanover and Hoggard students enjoy good food at the first joint meeting.

Paul Walker helps Susan Manor adjust the Honor Society collar on her graduation robe.

Peggy Symmes, Anne Nelson, Deborah Fales, Pam Rhodes, and Pam Fisher look over order lists in anticipation of purchasing Honor Society pins.

Tracy McKinion helps a student improve upon his studies through the tutoring program.

National Honor Society

Hanover's National Honor Society provided an organization in which approximately 60 excelling students could participate. This society met with Hog-gard's chapter early in the year to lead the way to a better relationship between students of the two schools. Covered-dish supper meetings provided members with an opportunity to discuss plans for projects and school activities. Holding junior and senior inductions in May at a junior-senior assembly added an extra feeling of honor to both new and old members. Several of these members participated in a weekly tutoring program which offered individual attention to students of Chestnut Junior High.

Karen Joyner, Peggy Symmes, Anne Nelson, Ned Pitts, and Billy Cross make last-minute preparations on backdrops for the junior-senior induction.

Mindy Skelton and Nancy Malpass work to meet a deadline.

Advertising manager Ann Ward looks over the business records with financial adviser, Mr. Larry Bray.

Wildcat

Under the direction of the "Wildcat" staff members, the students in the Journalism I class wrote articles for our school paper. The staffers worked to edit, type, and lay out the pages each month before the deadline. Several of the students obtained new ideas by attending journalism workshops at Chapel Hill, Campbell College, and the University of South Carolina at Columbia.

Marilyn Wrisbon, Dea Biddison, Shirley Rouse, and Paul Walker examine the layouts and articles in the newspapers received from other high schools.

Mrs. Lane discusses an article from the "Star-News" with Peggy Phillips, Sheila Holland, and Beth Hicks.

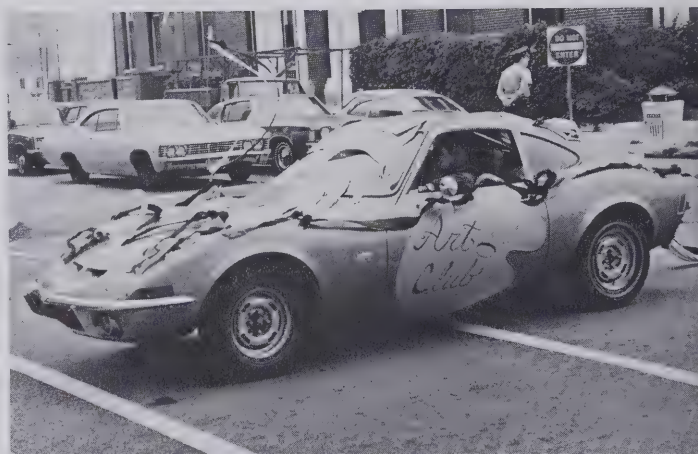

Suzanne Maskery and Beth Turner talk to one of Mr. Boone's art classes about pen and ink sketching.

Art Club

The plans of the NHHS Art Club revolved around the idea of school-wide participation. The club planned a number of demonstrations in useful and decorative handicrafts such as macramé, and a juror's show, with club members judging artwork submitted by the student body.

WILD station manager and part time disc jockey Ken Sneed changes records.

This unique float was the Art Club's contribution to the Homecoming Parade.

WILD

Last year's candy sales, combined with a $100 donation from the 1972 senior class and the balance from the school's general activity fund, paid for four new speakers, headphones, two turntables, and an amplifier for WILD. Utilizing their new equipment, the club sponsored an after-game social in January.

Bus Drivers

Besides their normal runs, the bus drivers also drove students to the North Carolina Symphony and took them on occasional field trips. Upkeep of the insides of the buses was also a responsibility the drivers had. They relaxed at events such as a Christmas party at a local fish camp and a hamburger cookout.

Diana Hartley and Dan Jackson rush to finish their time sheets before the monthly deadline.

School Spirit Club's president, Marsha Wolfe, distributes boxes of doughnuts to club members with the help of David Stubbs and Sheila Holland.

School Spirit Club

In addition to publicizing ball games and dances throughout the year, School Spirit Club sponsored Homecoming Week. Proceeds from stationery and doughnut sales and car washes supplied funds for the annual Homecoming Dance at which "Joyride" provided entertainment. To encourage more school spirit during Homecoming Week, club members presented a skit at the pep rally and wore sneakers and hats.

During Homecoming's pep rally, Randy Ourt, David Wallace, and Aaron Larkins dance to the pep band's music as David Peterson portrays a "stuffed pig" from Hoggard.

School Spirit Club members Suzanne Maskery and Judy Yelton examine a box of stationery the club sold.

Grace Maynard, Stephanie Batson, Charlie Wall, Fern Craig, and Laura Pitts meet to discuss decoration plans for the Homecoming Dance.

Mark Massey, Jay Simmons, and Cookie White show their school spirit by participating in "Hat Day."

Emily Robinson, Ann Foster, and Patti Mills welcome Mr. Jack Pindell, band director from Hoggard, to New Hanover's band concert.

Majorettes

To arouse school spirit, Majorettes wore black and white uniforms on football game days. Headed by Ann Foster, the octet performed during halftime at the home football games and marched in the Homecoming, Azalea, and Jacksonville Parades. To highlight the year, the Majorettes marched in the Inaugural Parade in Raleigh.

Civinette members Bunny Woods, president Peggy Symmes, Denise Rogers, Debbie Edens, and Rita Todd scramble for the perfect picture for a faculty member's Christmas card.

Civinettes

Civinettes' first project of the year was their Homecoming Float. For Christmas they made Christmas cards for the faculty and administration. In order to brighten the Student Union's windows, they painted Christmas trees and candy canes on them.

When Wilmington Youth Council sponsored a "Leadership Workshop", Ellen Smith, an enthusiastic club member, represented Civinettes.

FIRST ROW: Chris Robinson, Ann Foster, Kathy Benton, Janet Owen, Beth Day, and Kathy McLain. SECOND ROW: Susan Coley, Barbara Price, Carole Brennemon, Lynn Sneed, Bobbie Alexander, Ellen Smith. THIRD ROW: Pat Webb, Brenda Asbury, Judy Yelton, Liz Harrington, Rita Shain, Joy Clark, Debbie Shifflet, Debbie Edens. BACK ROW: Robin Yelton, Denise Rogers, Peggy Symmes, Angie Clemmons, Pam Everett, Candace Craig.

Robin Yelton and Dale Dowless encourage Tommy Lee to purchase a box of the bands' greeting cards.

Bands and Orchestra

The Concert and Symphonic bands gave major performances at Christmas and in April. A greeting card sale in March helped to finance many new uniforms which these bands needed.

Stage Band members presented programs of rock and traditional music for many local civic clubs. In December they performed at the convention for School Supervisors of the North Carolina Association of Educators.

Music of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries was the focal point of concerts by the Orchestra. These concerts provided a chance for both students and parents to be entertained and educated by the music of Bach, Haydn, and other masters.

Tom Buffington and Ben Lackey unload bread from the racks before a bread sale.

Members discuss plans for the Key Club-Keyettes Valentine banquet.

Key Club

NHHS Key Club members carried through with their theme of "service" in many ways. Their projects this year included Christmas caroling at Babies and New Hanover Memorial Hospitals, giving a Christmas dinner to a local blind family, and, more relative to our students, donating a tape recorder to a paralyzed girl to aid her with her studies. Club members raised the money for these activities by parking cars at the Jaycee Fair, conducting a bread sale, and selling tickets to a pancake dinner.

Johnny Codington, Scott Rhodes, Ricky Killian, Paul Beale, and Mike Sparks attended the Kiwanis Annual District Convention in Wilmington.

Meg Talbert and Jay Jordan find time to clown around during the Valentine banquet.

Treasurer Frank Brock signs the check for donation to a local orphanage.

Kenneth Sneed and Pat Conrad examine a copy of the handbook, while Norma Knapp and Deborah Fales unpack copies for distribution to homerooms.

HANDBOOK and DIRECTORY

Members of handbook committee devoted part of their summer vacation in order to have our handbook, "The Orange and Black", ready for the opening of school. Their work included compiling information for the book, typing it up, stapling it together, and distributing it to homerooms.

The telephone directory committee spent many hours both during and after school alphabetizing, proofreading, typing, and conducting sales drives. Seventy-seven students combined their efforts in order to get this useful book ready before Christmas.

Karen Edwards, Doris Bailey, Karen Manning, Sarah Barnhill, Liberace Wilson, and Susan Cook remain after school to proofread sheets for the telephone directory.

DECA

DECA is a club composed exclusively of Distributive Education students. The organization's objective is to teach a student responsibility to his employer and his community. During the Christmas season, members collected toys, food, and clothing and donated them to a family of six. In a local student of the year contest, sponsored by the Cape Fear Sales and Marketing Executive Association, two members gained first and second places. Mrs. Smith and eight of the students also attended a State Leadership Conference in Charlotte.

Kathy Murphy and Gale Pylant found that the Student of the Year interview was not as bad as expected.

DECA created another prize-winning exhibit at the County Fair again this year.

Devone Sherod, Angela Holmes, Deirdre Bloodworth, Pam Tyson, Wanda Cribb, Sandra Sarvis, Juanita Soderstrom, Dennis Morris, and Deborah Carr contribute toys and tree decorations for a needy family at Christmas.

Cooperative Office Occupations

COO, a thirty-five member club, not only worked in the classroom and at places of business, but also devoted much time to service and fund-raising activities. Besides having rummage and bake sales in the fall, they made a float for the Homecoming Parade. At Thanksgiving they furnished food for a needy family and at Christmas they collected toys for a family of six. To celebrate Vocational Education Week, February 11-17, the students held a coffee hour for their employers and advisory council.

Organizing ROTC cadets was the responsibility of the Battalion Staff. Battalion Commander, cadet LTC Steve Coleman, and Executive Officer, cadet Major Dennis Todd saw that the battalion maintained the standards prescribed by the ROTC instructors. Staff members kept administrative files on each cadet, maintained supply files, posted Officer of the Day duties, and kept companies informed on new activities.

Recruiting was a long and strenuous job but was well worth the effort as sophomores made up over one-half of the corps this year.

In September, cadets elected thirteen sponsors instead of the usual nine. ROTC instructors hoped that the additional sponsors would help give an idea of how girls will react to the program.

Members of the entire cadet corps marched in the Homecoming Parade. Members of the Officers Club worked long hours preparing a float to enter in the parade. Most officers believed their float deserved better than the three-way tie for second place that it received.

In early December, drill team members travelled to Wallace to participate in the Wallace Christmas Parade. The team anxiously awaited the trip as it was their first out-of-town parade of the year.

February the third was the date of the annual ROTC Ball. To raise money for the ball, cadets held two car washes, collected about four thousand bottles, and sold chocolate candy bars during the Christmas Holidays. Providing the music for the second straight year, The Bill Elliot Quintet entertained cadets and their dates.

Cadets began preparations for the Annual Federal Inspection in the spring. Walls had to be painted, floors cleaned and painted and the records checked for accuracy. The NHHS ROTC unit has been an honor unit since 1938. In order to keep this rating, the corps must demonstrate outstanding qualities to the inspecting party. This year the inspecting party came from the Senior ROTC unit at Orangeburg, South Carolina.

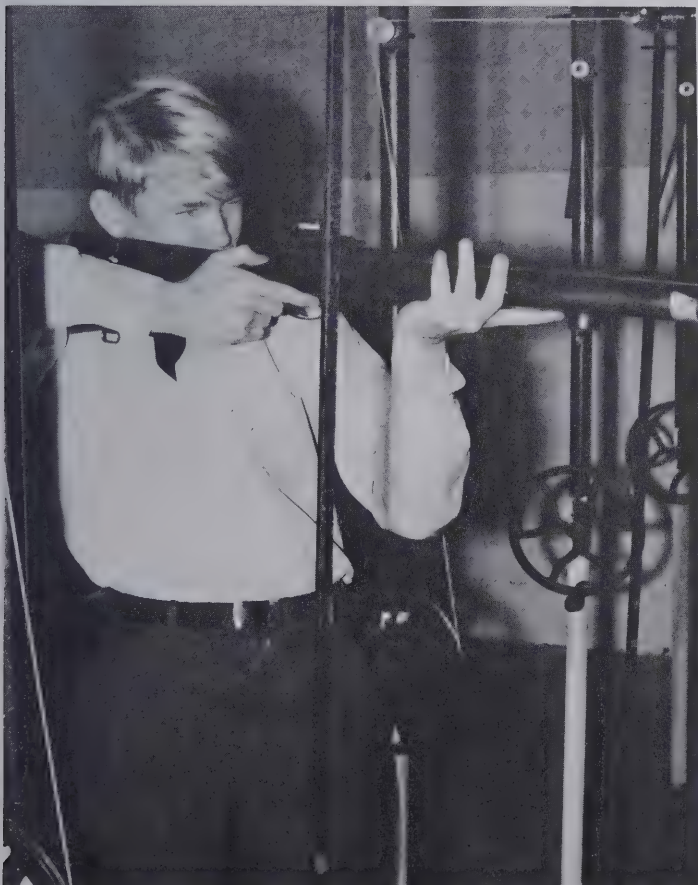

"Great Expectations" was the hope of every cadet as Honors Day neared. Each year outstanding cadets receive awards for their performances during the year. Some awards presented are Department of the Army Award, American Legion Award, Sons of the American Revolution Award, Daughters of the American Revolution Award, and the coveted Cape Fear Sword.

New Hanover High School acquired several new coaches for the 1972-1973 school year. They were Dwight Flanagan, James Morrissey, and Bonnie Page.

Dwight Flanagan, a graduate of East Carolina University, served as head track coach and assistant football coach.

James Morrissey served as the head coach for both the Wrestling and the Boys' Tennis teams.

Miss Bonnie Page was the Girls' Tennis coach. She also organized the Girls' Intramural teams.

The Wildcats nabbed second place in Division I by winning four out of five division and six out of ten conference contests. Undefeated Reid Ross handed New Hanover its only division loss.

For the fifth straight year, the 'Cats bounced past Hoggard's squad, but this year's 14-9 score accurately described the closeness of the game. This five point margin was the narrowest in the Hoggard-New Hanover series.

The majority of the Wildcat squad consisted of experienced seniors, but many capable juniors and two very promising sophomores rounded off the team.

This year the Kittens had one of the best teams to grace New Hanover High School in the past decade. The Kittens achieved a stunning undefeated unscored-upon season. They scored 99 points in the process. Their only set-back occurred against Goldsboro when the two teams battled to a 0-0 tie.

This excellent record can be attributed to the J. V.'s well-rounded list of defensive personnel who played consistent, hard-hitting football. Likewise, the offense had an excellent line and strong running backs with power enough to gain repeatedly on the ground.

As varsity players, these men will definitely have championship possibilities.

Wildcats Lack Winning Combination

Sam Robinson drives toward the basket past a Hoggard defender.

Jim Thomas shoots a 30 foot jumpshot from the corner to crack a zone defense.

Frank Brock pops in a short jumpshot against Terry Sanford.

Although the Wildcats had more than adequate talent on their team this year, they failed to show the teamwork and poise necessary for a winning ball club. However, what the Cats needed most was a consistent leader. This role alternated from person to person, but Frank Brock shouldered this responsibility somewhat more than anyone else.

The only highlight in an otherwise dull season came during a 3 point upset over Hoggard. This game was characterized by a balanced Wildcat attack and a relatively even-scoring tally.

Once again this year a player-coach clash resulted in the quitting of several team members. At the end of the season, depth was definitely a problem to Coach Miastkowski because the bench consisted of only two players.

J.V. Team Experiences Successful Season

The Wildkittens gain valuable experience by practicing against the varsity.

The finest junior varsity basketball team in several years jumped into their season with a winning spirit. They won seven games and lost only three in Division I contests. A 10-7 overall record placed the Kittens among the best in the East.

Led by Tommy Killian and Mike Sweat the Wildkittens averaged 49.7 points per game and held their opponents to 46.3. Talent from this team should relieve the varsity's acute shortage of wins during the past few years.

Girls Tennis Team Enjoys Competition

The girls' tennis team entered its season totally unprepared because of the change in the season. This year's season began in October instead of March, and the unnotified NHHS team had no time to practice.

Lack of experienced players was also a factor in the girls' regrettable season. Only two of last year's top six returned this year.

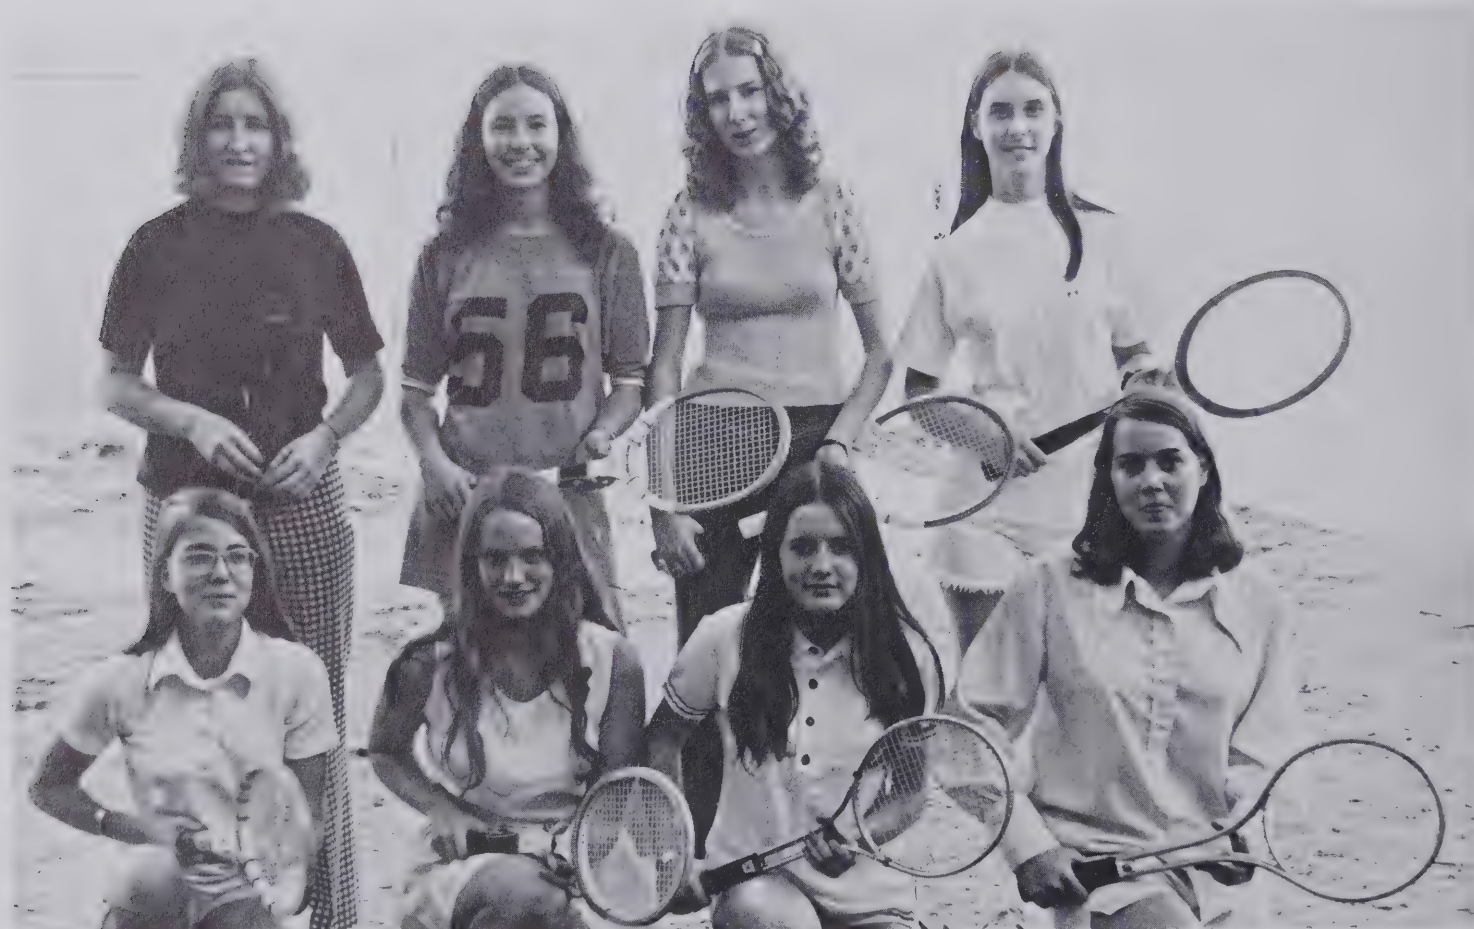

With these odds against them, the girls still went into the season determined to win. This year's top players were Peggy Phillips, Julia McKeown, Sharon Jackson, Lee Wight, June Horton, Karen Edwards, Nanette Paul, and Lynn Sneed.

Catcher Randy Ourt led the Wildcats in hitting with a .391 batting average. Center fielder Van Lewis followed Ourt by only a single point with .390.

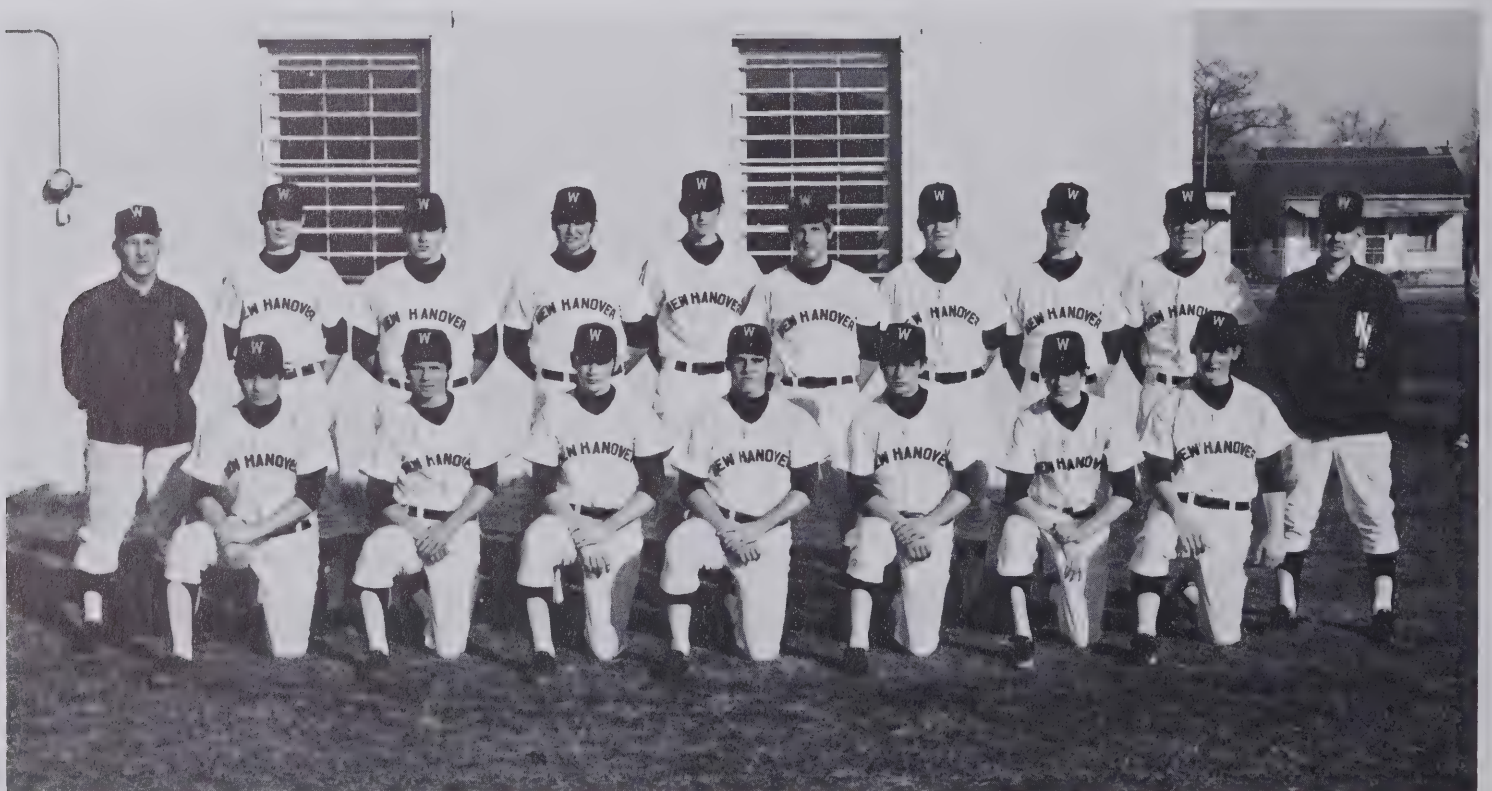

A strong pitching staff was instrumental in the Cats' fine season. Randy Prosser, Ron Taylor, and Andy Tysinger shared the pitching duties.

Jerry Roberts jumps out of the way of a wildly pitched ball.

Jimmy Southerland races to home plate and adds one more point to the Cats' score.

The 1972 Junior Varsity baseball team complimented New Hanover High School with their 9-2 record. Their only un-avenged loss came against Dixon.

The Kittens' 16-0 rout over Hoggard was a spectacular example of teamwork. Strong, consistent hitting led to the 16 runs while good pitching and well performed fielding prevented Hoggard from scoring.

Among the list of leading players on the team were Jimmy Southerland, Alan Phillips, and Kim Bowman.

Walter Robertson slides safely into third base.

Bobby Beard follows through after throwing a fastball.

Cats Set New School Records

Dick Kline prepares to hurl the discus.

The Wildcats captured second place in Division I during the 1973 season. They were an asset to their school as well as their community. Several members of the team ran 20 miles for the March of Dimes Walkathon. They received pledges from many local individuals and businesses to donate a given amount for each mile that they ran.

The only seniors on the team were Frank Brock, Chris Furr, Jeff Johnson, David Stubbs, Clifton Thomas, and Bernard Sloan. However, the strength of the juniors and sophomores on the team assisted greatly in the team's success. The 1974 team should benefit greatly from their experience.

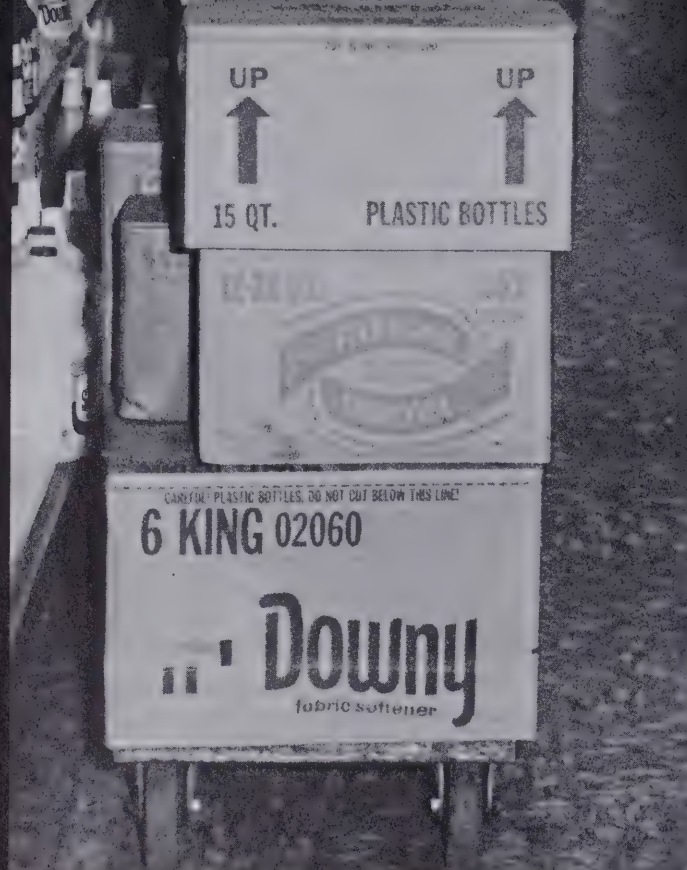

Jeff Johnson clears the bar in a spectacular jump in the pole vaulting event.
